WILL PATROL COAST FROM KITTERY TO EASTPORT

Maine Authorities to Use Steamers to Enforce Lobster Law

The authorities of Maine mean to enforce the new lobster law which went into effect on Tuesday. To this end the entire coast from Kittery to Eastport will be covered by patrol boats. The Pauline, Capt. Fernando Allen, will move between Kittery and Rockland and the Virginia will work between Rockland and Eastport.

For the first offense in disobeying the law which requires fishermen to be supplied with a 1915 license a fine of $25 will be imposed by the court. For the second offense, a fine of $50, and for the third and every subsequent offense, the respondent will have to pay a fine of $50 and spend 30 days in jail. It will be very easy for the officers of the patrol boats to find offenders, for a different colored ink will be stamped upon all the traps of those who have acquired licenses. The change of the ink will not necessitate the buying of new branding iron from year to year, but the scheme which will be followed out by the lobster commission is similar to that employed

GOVERNOR WILL NOT BE HERE

Previous Engagement Takes Him to the Rockingham Fair.

Chief Engineer William T. Woods is in receipt of a communication from Governor Roland H. Spaulding in which he sends regrets in not being able to attend the state firemen's convention in this city today owing to a previous engagement at the Rockingham Fair at Salem, N. H.

ONE KILLED FIVE INJURED

When Auto Turns Turtle Near Waterville, Me.

(Special to The Herald)
Waterville, Me., Sept. 29.—Arthur J. Lanigan, son of one of the wealthiest lumber men in Maine was instantly killed and two other men and three women were injured in an auto accident ten miles from here early today. Lanigan, who owned the car was driving. Descending a steep hill he partially lost control and the rear wheels swung into the ditch. When he tried to right the car it turned turtle and he was crushed to death. The others were thrown clear of the car. Although all were unconscious for a time they are expected to recover. The injured are John Hefferington, aged 29 of Waterville, formerly captain of the Colby football team, Adelbert Greenleaf, aged 21 of Fairfield, Mrs. Greenleaf, Miss Martha Grosseau, Miss Ida Strong of Waterville. Lanigan was a student at the New York University.

GERMAN LOSSES NUMBER 120,000

(Special to The Herald)
Paris, Sept. 29.—German losses in Artois and the Champagne region up to date were officially estimated at 120,000 men here today. These figures were based upon the prisoners taken by the Allies and the number of German wounded and dead found upon the fields where the French and British made their recent gains. The great conflict in Champagne continues. During the night groups of Germans numbering one thousand, surrendered north of Meuse. German artillery has opened a vigorous bombardment of the French trenches north and south of the Aisne.

2500 EMPLOYEES WALK OUT

(Special to The Herald)
Hartford, Sept. 29.—Twenty-five hundred employees of the Whitney Manufacturing Co. of this city walked out on strike today because the firm refused to consider their demands for an 8-hour day and an increase in wages. The company which manufactures tools and machinery employs about 3,000 hands.

STATE FIREMEN IN ANNUAL CONVENTION

CHIEF WILLIAM F. WOODS OF THIS CITY WHO WAS ELECTED PRESIDENT OF THE N.
H. STATE FIREMEN'S ASSOCIATION.

Chief William F. Woods Elected Presi- dent of Association--150 Delegates Present for Two Days' Program

The eighteenth annual convention of the New Hampshire Firemen's Association is being held in this city, opening this forenoon at Freeman's Hall with the business session.

The committee is made up from the various fire companies in the different cities and towns and of 151 delegates, 142 are present, and with a number to arrive here this afternoon and evening.

The convention will be extended over tomorrow when the delegates become the guests of the local fire department. An elaborate program has been arranged for their entertainment.

The convention was called to order at 10:30 by President Thomas W. Lane, chief of the Manchester department. At that time there were about 110 present.

Rev. Percy W. Gamwell of the Court Street Christian church offered the opening prayer.

Mayor Harry D. Yeaton was next introduced and he delivered an address of welcome in which he offered the freedom of the city to the visiting firemen.

President Lane responded with a brief speech in which he said he knew he voiced the sentiment of the delegates when he said that they were all glad to come to Portsmouth, whose well known hospitality was known all over the state.

The report of the credential committee showed 129 delegates present, but later many more were handed in.

Col. John H. Bartlett was to have delivered an address, but he was forced to send his regrets.

The reports of the various committees were then made, including executive, legislative, etc.

The report of the Secretary, Oscar P. Stone of Manchester shows that the association has made a gain of 149 members during the past year, making a total of 2,649.

The report of Treasurer John H. Kilbride showed a cash balance of $5,025.23 on hand, and benefit claims paid in 57 different cases.

The election of officers was then taken up and it resulted in the following choices:

President—William F. Woods, Portsmouth.
Secretary—Oscar P. Stone, Manchester.

Treasurer—John H. Kilbride, Manchester.
Vice presidents—James H. Fiske, Laconia; Harry E. Colby, Franklin; W. A. Horne, Somersworth; John Cunningham, Franklin; H. L. Whittier, Wolfeboro; E. C. Brooks, Milford.

Executive committee—E. S. Sears, Laconia.

At this point the convention took a recess until 2:30 for dinner.

This afternoon the installation of President Woods took place, followed by the appointment of the general committee.

Dinner was served at Odd Fellows' Hall by the Rebekah Lodge. The special guests were Mayor H. D. Yeaton and members of the city council.

This evening the delegates to the convention will be the guests of the

SEIZED LIQUORS SOLD AT CUSTOM HOUSE

Uncle Sam Puts Canadian Goods Under the Hammer--Sale Brings $290.30

A consolidated sale of goods seized by the department of customs took place at the custom house today where Deputy Collector Howell C. Russell auctioned off the smuggled goods, mostly liquor seized on the Maine border by the government deputies. The lot comprised the very best brand of whiskey, gin, rum and brandy and one package of cloth that came over from Canada only to fall into the hands of the officers.

According to the Maine laws the liquor could not be disposed of in that state by sale and Uncle Sam was obliged to send it all to Portsmouth for a market. The amount realized was $290.30 and in part to Joseph Sacco, J. H. Lamb, William Ward and Sons, John Torrey, Percy Rowe, William H. Dunn, Charles H. Stewart. The cloth was purchased by William H. McDonald. This was the first time Uncle Sam has appeared as auctioneer since the sale of seized clothing took place two years ago. The liquor disposed of today was sold in all kinds of receptacles from a half pint bottle to a barrel.

THE BULGARIAN CABINET FAILS

Because of Premier's Efforts to Align Bulgaria With Germany

Paris, Sept. 29.—A news dispatch received here today states that the Bulgarian cabinet headed by Premier Radoslawoff has failed and that King Ferdinand has asked Mithoff, a strong supporter of the entente allies to form a ministry. The message attributes the premier's fall to his efforts to align Bulgaria with Germany in defiance of the popular sentiment of his country.

The news which it conveyed caused a sensation here despite the fact that information which had reached the French government has caused an optimistic feeling for the last two days.

WILLIE HUGGINS WON WITH A KNOCKOUT

Hill Defeated in the Eighth Round Last Night After Getting Better of Mill for Six Rounds.

Willie Huggins, the battler from the U. S. S. Leonidas put Jim Hill of the Navy Yard Band away last evening in the eighth round of the final bout at Freeman's Hall. Hill had all the better of the mill until the end of the sixth round, landing blow after blow at will on Huggins' face and body, but Huggins, who is known as a slugger with a deep marker in each hand, waited his time and as Hill was by this time pretty much all in, got past his guard in the seventh, putting him to the mat three times, and in the eighth round, flooring him twice, the second time for a K. O.

As the boxers were introduced by Referee Heine Cragen, both Hill and Huggins were given hearty receptions. Huggins will be remembered here as the man who put "Shadow" Morris away last winter and who was himself knocked out by Young Jasper of Boston. Hill was unknown to the fans, but he looked good at that.

The first round opened fast, with Hill doing all the leading and landing telling straight lefts on Huggins' face. He baited Willie about at will, and it was wondered if the colored fighter could stand the mauling until he could get in his big one. The round ended without Huggins landing a single blow on Hill.

The second, third, fourth, fifth and sixth rounds were simply repetitions of the first, Huggins bleeding freely from the mouth in the last three rounds. In the fifth, although Hill continued to fight hard and was getting all the better as far as landing blows were concerned, his blows lacked steam and he seemed to be weakening. In the fifth Hill slipped and went through the ropes.

In the sixth, although it was decidedly Hill's round, he fell once after getting a smashing right to the ribs. He was on his feet and at it again, but the bell sounded in a few seconds.

The seventh round started with Hill going strong for a few moments. He sent a hard left to the face which failed to shake Huggins. Huggins in closing in, drove a hard swing into Hill's ribs. This was followed by a soft jab to the head and another right to the body. Hill went into a clinch. After the break Huggins drove three terrific right swings to the body and Hill went to the mat. He took the count of eight. As he gained his feet, Huggins crashed into his ribs again, and Hill again went to the floor. He took his time in getting up but a left swing to the head floored him. Again taking eight, he regained his feet as the bell ended the round.

The eighth round was short. Hill opened with two straight lefts to the face, Huggins taking them. Watching his chance for a opening, he took Hill off his guard and again drove his hard right into Hill's ribs, Hill falling face downward for the count.

The semi-final bout between Portsmouth's old favorite Knockout Stauber and Young Dillon of Indianapolis was won by the latter who led all the way and clearly had all the better of the battle. The mill was fast from the opening bell until the end of the eighth round. Stauber and Dillon were both in top form and worked hard and fast all the time. Each man was hitting clean hard blows and were doing some great defensive work. Heine Cragen's decision was acknowledged fairly by the fans, although Stauber's losing was a disappointment.

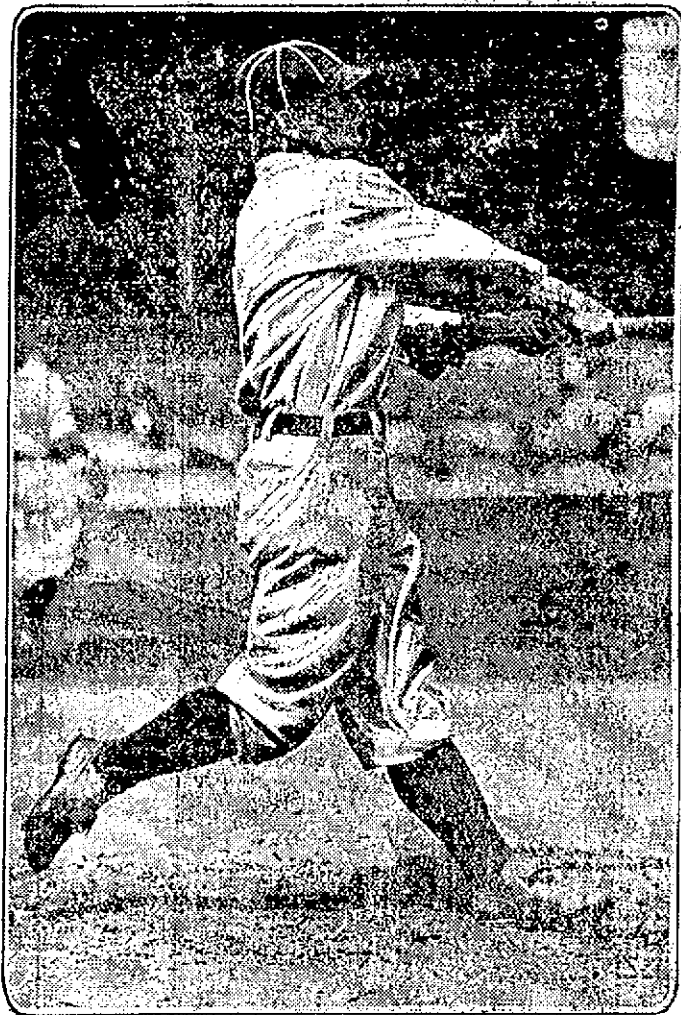

In the preliminary bout Willie Kane of Portsmouth was matched against Joe Flynn of the Leonidas and showed yellow in the fourth round, looking for a soft spot in the ring and lying face down until counted out. Flynn never had a chance to land his last punch and Kane quit too soon. In the first two rounds Kane looked the better of the two, landing several blows and going strong. It was thought by the fans that the bout would go to him if it lasted the six scheduled rounds. Kane's quitting in the fourth spoiled a pretty fight.

Dr. Usher on Tuberculosis

Dr. William Usher, one of the foremost of living medical men, formerly of Johns Hopkins, Baltimore, and now Usher Professor of medicine at Oxford, says in his "Practice of Medicine" (1909), on page 249: "The leading of pulmonary tuberculosis is almost entirely by the recovery of patients in whose lungs elastic tissue and health have been found. In the treatment of tuberculosis, a scar tissue is formed, while the lungs are being treated with the most powerful of lung salts. To such conditions alone should the term 'cure' be applied."

While it is true that this remedy in numerous cases of tuberculosis—many of which appear to have yielded completely to it—justifies our belief that it is worth a trial, unless some other treatment already is successful, it contains no curative, mercurial or habit-forming drugs. We make no promises concerning it any more than reputable physicians give promises with their prescriptions, but we know of many cases in which it has helped. Your druggist has it or can get it, or you can send direct, Belmont Laboratory, Philadelphia.

MILTON STOCK, WHO REPLACED BYRNE ON THIRD, HAS DONE MUCH TO PUSH PHILLIES PENNANTWARD.

STOCK.

Philadelphia, Sept. 29.—Milton Stock has been playing such an excellent game at third for the Phillies since he succeeded Bobby Byrne who was injured early in the season, that there is no possible means of Byrne getting into the world series games unless Stock is injured. His playing for Pat Moran has surpassed anything he showed for the Giants and, in fact, he has been of more value than Hans Lohr, for whom he, Adams and Deane were traded.

KITTERY

A supper was served to the members of the official boards of the South Eliot and Kittery Methodist churches and their wives on Tuesday evening in the vestry of the Second Methodist church. There were about 30 members of the two boards present. Great credit is due Mrs. Ida Marshall, who was in charge of the supper for the bounteous repast. Following the supper, U. G. Sweet, acting chairman of the official board of the Second Methodist church, after some very pleasing remarks concerning Rev. and Mrs. A. J. Hayes on their relations to the church, presented them on behalf of the official board a serving table and cover as a token of their high esteem and respect. Mrs. Hayes and Rev. Mr. Hayes responded in words of appreciation. Thereupon Rev. Mr. Hayes presented Rev. William Forgrave, of Raymond, N. H., as his possible successor. Rev. Mr. Forgrave then made a few remarks upon his attitude toward the situation and the opportunity afforded him by coming to Kittery. At the close of his remarks an unanimous invitation was extended Rev. Mr. Forgrave to become the pastor of the church, succeeding the appointment may be favorable to Bishop Hamilton, in whose hands the decision remains. The prayer meeting that followed was very largely attended by persons from both Eliot and Kittery. The closing address and exhortation was made by Rev. Mr. Hayes, commending the church upon their work and urging them to go forward. At the official board meeting which was held after the prayer meeting a financial statement of the church was read showing that it was in excellent condition.

Mrs. Herman Paul and Miss Helen A. Paul passed today in Exeter.

The Phoebe Sewing Bee was entertained this afternoon by Mrs. C. J. Yeomans of Government street.

Regular meeting of Whipple Lodge, Good Templars, will be held this evening at which time the installation of officers will take place.

Mrs. Fred Abrams and son, Charles, of Newton Avenue, were guests of friends at Kittery Point on Tuesday.

A rehearsal of those taking part in the Rally Day exercises will be held Thursday afternoon at 4.15 o'clock in the vestry of the Second Christian church. All children are requested to attend.

Millard Chick of North Kittery passed today at Salem, N. H., in attendance at Rockingham Fair.

A meeting of the Philatelic Club will be held this evening in the vestry of the Second Christian church.

Miss Hilda Caswell, the young daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Selwyn Caswell of North Kittery, celebrated the fourth anniversary of her birth today, and received many pretty gifts from friends.

A photograph of the York County grand jury which included Charles H. Jellis of this town, was printed in Tuesday evening's Portland Express.

Mrs. Mills of Dang street has returned from a week's visit with her daughter at Lake Winnepesaukee.

Mrs. Walter Pernal of Whipple road, who has been seriously ill, is now much improved and is again able to be out.

Mr. and Mrs. Calvin D. Dunbar of Westworth street have returned home after passing a week with their daughter, Mrs. George F. Wood, in Melford, Mass.

Mrs. Clifford C. Andrews and little son Newton of Bridge street, who have been passing a few days in Brookline, Mass., as guests of the former's mother, Mrs. L. N. Hurd, have returned home.

Mrs. Frank E. Donnell of Central street has returned from a visit with her son, Walter H. Donnell of Wyoma, Mass.

Shirley Holt, the little son of Mr. and Mrs. Shirley Holt of Bridge street, is restricted to his home by illness.

Mr. and Mrs. Roy Prime and daughter of Allston, Mass., are guests of the former's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Charles Prime of Bridge street.

FUNERAL NOTICE.

Funeral services of Jeremiah L. Godfrey will be held at the Methodist church in Greenland, Thursday afternoon at two o'clock. Prayers at his late home, 79 Bridge street, at 12.30 o'clock. Friends and relatives invited.

BOSTON LETTER

Boston, Sept. 29.—A careful study of traffic conditions is being made by the street commissioners of Boston. Their investigation and report will have considerable influence upon motor traffic conditions in all New England cities. The probe is the result of discussion relative to the regulation which would force auto drivers to come to a full stop when approaching a street car which is discharging passengers. The bitter opposition made by the motorists halted the commissioners' when they attempted to pass this regulation. That will probably be the result of a conference between the representatives of automobile associations and the street commissioners will be the establishment of "islands of safety." This will be done on certain streets by marking a reserved space or trolley car stops which vehicles would not be allowed to enter or pass over when people were waiting for cars or when a car had stopped to discharge passengers. Motorists feel that an absolute rule requiring them to stop their cars every time a trolley car ahead of them stops would be a detriment to the city in that it would greatly slow up the passage of all kinds of traffic and bring about still worse conditions in streets where conditions already are bad. They feel that the state motor law covers this point sufficiently, and that if enforced it would give plenty of protection.

Col. John P. Irish of California, who is speaker in the Anti-Suffrage delegation that is on a speaking tour of the state declared that the enfranchisement of women meant irresponsible government on one half of the electorate, the emotional half, because women could not be held responsible for its enforcement. He also said that it was folly to suppose that the enfranchisement of women would result in the abolition of vice.

Governor David I. Walsh at the big Democratic city endorsement meeting here declared that the work of Mayor Curley in calling the active workers into cooperation for his re-election meant that a spirit of harmony and enthusiasm had been aroused which is certain to mean success at the polls in November. "The work," he said "requires the co-operation of every man who believes in the success of the candidates and the issues for which the candidates stand." He said that nearly $1,000,000 more had been placed in the pockets of injured workers between October 1, 1914 and October 1, 1915, than was the case in the previous year and expressed the conviction that the party can rely on the workers. He spoke of legislation concerning public wealth and to relieve the burdens of people and said, "we never entered a campaign with more to commend ourselves to the electorate."

The State Board of Agriculture is co-operating with the Massachusetts Fruit Growers' Association, will give a demonstration of the requirements of the new "Apple grading law," at Faneuil Hall October 4 at 2 p. m. The demonstration will be in charge of W. H. Woodworth of Berwick, N. S., and Alden Brett of North Abington.

STILL SMASHING GERMAN LINES

French and British Offensives Continue to Make Progress--Desperate Ger- man Counters Fail.

London, Sept. 28.—While the censor holds down the war news to the minimum it is perfectly apparent that the fighting in the west is becoming more and more intense. Both the British and the French are continuing the attack on the second line German trenches, while the Germans are counter-attacking in the fiercest manner in an effort to check the advance of the Allies. If the latter have the men, munitions and nerve to make further progress and get within striking distance of the German railroad system of communication the Teutons in the salient in northern France will have to consider retirement or risk envelopment. Every effort that the Germans know how to make will be made to prevent this catastrophe to their arms with its loss of physical advantage and military prestige. So we are quite likely to see the withdrawal of the major part of the Austro-German army concentrated on the Hungarian frontier of Serbia for the purpose of overrunning the Italian states. If the drive of the Allies is not then checked troops must be withdrawn from the Russian front. This latter action can only be taken as a desperate measure for the moment the tension is relaxed in the east back comes the Russian army which the combined Austro-German armies, aided by the greatest artillery contingent the world has ever seen, failed to destroy or even disorganize. The moment appears to have come when the Allies can help relieve the Russians who, for months, have borne the brunt of the battle. The Muscovites short of ammunition themselves, but operating in a great theatre where distances and time worked with them, kept the bulk of the Austro-German forces and artillery engaged in the east against the time the Allies should have accumulated the men and shells necessary to take the offensive. At last the great deficiency of munitions which the war uncovered in France, and particularly in England, apparently has been remedied, and the Allies appear to be ready to help Russia by making the Germans detach troops for the west. While German prisoners are arriving in France by the train load, British wounded from Flanders are beginning to reach London. All have the same story to tell. They describe the terrible bombardment of the Allies, before which it seemed impossible that anyone could survive, and the sudden shocking of the fire and then the charge. How it happened that so many unarmoured Germans were captured is puzzling the public in England and France.

Allied Drive Progresses
Paris, Sept. 28.—The new offensive movement of the Allies has resulted in a further gain in the Artois region.

near Souchez, the French War Office announced today.

Additional progress is reported in Champagne.

"In the Argonne the obstinate attacks delivered yesterday by the enemy with six or eight battalions against our first line trenches at La Fille Morle and at Nolant resulted in a serious check. The counter attacks made by us in the course of the night made it possible for us to expel the German infantrymen from almost all the positions they had succeeded in penetrating. The ground in front of our trenches is covered with dead bodies of the enemy.

"The night passed with relative calm along the remainder of the front."

German Counter Blocked
The French official statement made public last night says that the situation south of Arras remains unmodified and that the fighting in the Champagne continues. The statement adds that the Germans Monday began another offensive movement in the Argonne, but that it was completely checked and that the German losses were heavy.

The text of the communication follows:

"North of Arras the situation is without modification. The enemy has reacted only feebly against the new positions occupied by our troops. The number of prisoners taken in that region exceeds fifteen hundred.

"In Champagne the battle continues without cease. Our troops are at present on a front taken before the second position of the German defence, marked by Hill No. 185, west of the Navarin farm, the Souain hillock, the tree of Hill No. 193 and the village and hillock of Taligny.

"The number of cannon captured from the enemy has not yet been computed, but exceeds seventy field guns and heavy pieces, of which twenty-three were captured by the British army.

Belgian Planes Active
Paris, Sept. 28.—The Belgian official communication issued yesterday, reads as follows:

"During the night of Sept. 26-27 there was a light bombardment of our advanced posts.

"Our aviators have successfully bombarded, under a violent artillery, infantry and machine gun fire, the enemy encampments at Clercken, Essen and Keyn, and the encampments at Tract, Bosch, causing at that point fierce fires.

"Today there was a violent bombardment of Raucapelle and a bombardment of some of our advance posts at Ostkerke and trenches south of Dixmude."

Italian Guns Effective
Rome, Sept. 28.—The official statement from general headquarters of the

The German counter attack in the Argonne is said to have been repulsed. The Germans left the ground before the trenches covered with dead.

The Germans are offering determined resistance in Champagne. The positions to which they have retreated are protected by a system of barbed wire entanglements.

The text of the communication follows:

"In the Artois district we made advances yesterday evening, and last night we gained ground step by step in the direction of the hill tops to the east and to the southeast of Souchez.

"In the Champagne district the Germans are offering resistance from certain of their positions, where they are protected by concealed barbed wire entanglements.

"We have made further progress in the direction of Hill No. 185, which is to the west of the Navarin farm, and in the direction of La Justice, which is to the north of Massiges.

Italian army, dated Sept. 27, says:

"Small engagements were fought on the day of the 26th at Dosso Casina, on the southern slopes of Monte Al-Gisino (Monte Baldo), at Malga Secundo posts in the Monte Coston zone, on the slopes of Monte Rombon (Pezzo and Potego), and on Monte Nero. In every case the enemy was repulsed, leaving a number of prisoners in our hands.

"In the Pizzo Basin our artillery dispersed an enemy column which was descending the valley of Koritani and bombarded enemy working parties on Monte Rombon, forcing them to scatter.

"On the Carso, on the extreme left wing of that part we occupy, our infantry surprised the enemy and made notable progress in the direction of Potenza, breaching themselves in the positions they won."

Little Progress by Germans
Petrograd, Sept. 28.—The following official communication from general headquarters was issued yesterday:

"Our fire repulsed a German attack in the region of the town of Ickan. The enemy's artillery continues to develop its fire at various points in the Riga region. The fire of our artillery has several times driven enemy airplanes away.

"At several points around Leningrad fierce fighting has been renewed. Numerous German attacks in the direction of Novo Alexandrovsk have been repulsed. The artillery struggle has attained great intensity.

"Vigorous attacks of our artillery against the forts of the upper Volga, in the region of Dolginsk, the German cavalry was dispersed. We made prisoners of six officers and sixty-five men and took three machine guns. More than one hundred Germans were killed. Our losses were insignificant.

"In the region west of Vileika a particularly obstinate fight has occurred. Our German attacks were repulsed; a few German tanks pressed our troops back slightly, but the fighting never slackened. One of our armies operating in this sector captured from the Germans during the past week three guns, of which five were of large calibre, thirty-three machine guns and twelve crewed guns with mortars. They made prisoners also of more than a thousand wounded Germans.

Little Action on Straits
London, Sept. 28.—A British official communication dealing with the activity on the Dardanelles peninsula.

"The recent operations on the Gallipoli peninsula have been confined mainly to attacks from our side by aircraft, to bombardments by artillery, and to mining.

"On the occasion the Turks opened heavy artillery fire on our whole front of Syria and Asia, which was answered by the British to a general attack. It was followed by an attack by a small force only. On the night of Sept. 27, the enemy was repulsed and a small number of prisoners were taken.

"The night of the 28th of the last the Turks lost a considerable number of men and material. The day was still cloudy."

ACTORS ARE LIKE CHILDREN

MR. FROHMAN TELLS OF SOME EXPERIENCES GAINED BY MR.
WILBUR IN BY GONE YEARS

"We want something more on Wilbur," said a number of the citizens of Portsmouth who had read the story of the popular Boston manager, A. L. Wilbur.

"All right," said Manager Frohman, "if Editor Hartford thinks that it will interest his readers."

The artistic colored minstrel gentleman, who slept around the stove in the little hall in Hinchfield, Illinois, in the winter of 1875, insisted upon their manager accepting the hospitality of Mr. Wilbur, and to sleep on a real bed in the village hotel instead of lying on the floor beside a red hot, old, wood-burning stove with the colored company. Their glazing eyes were filled with delight to think that, while the heavy snow storm prevented an audience from coming the night previous, Mr. Wilbur's face of genuine sympathy and hospitality assured them of a breakfast in the morning as well as railroad fares to St. Louis, where they were to play the following week at St. James' Hall.

In 1881 in New York Mr. Wilbur approached Mr. Frohman again, during the time he found that the minister had refused to take his money in exploiting Mr. Frohman's original idea of reproducing the Madison Square Theatre companies, he said, "I must get in somehow to study the game. Why not make me a manager of one of the companies."

"I can only give you a No. 2 Hazel Kirk Company. But do you wish to take personal charge and become a real theatrical manager on the road said Mr. Frohman.

"Of course, I want practical experience."

Two weeks work, however, entirely satisfied and disgusted Mr. Wilbur.

"Why, said he, when Mr. Frohman joined him in one of the one-night stands, 'the company actually expects me to run after them and to tell them what trains they are to take from town to town. And, what do you think, they wish me to advance them money on their salary. Of course, I refused them. It is not business. They get their salaries on their regular payday only, and if they wish to know what train they should take let them come to me at the door."

SUSPECTS IN MURDER CASE

TWO NEGROES HELD BY PORT-LAND POLICE— BELIEVED TO HAVE KILLED WATCHMAN
ST. JOHN

Portland, Me., Sept. 28.—The police have in custody two negroes who are suspected of having killed William E. St. John, the watchman whose body was found last night in a wholesale and retail hardware and sporting goods store in Monument square.

Alexander McKee of Providence, R. I., who was taken from a freight train from this city at Rumford Junction, last evening, and Joseph Jackson of Richmond, Va., who was taken into custody in a house on Deer street at about the same time, were said to answer the descriptions of two men who hurried through a Congress street fruit store from the rear of the hardware store, shortly before the watchman's body was found.

According to the police they were seen together here late in the afternoon and Jackson says he left McKee during the afternoon. Several new automatic revolvers, a chisel and other tools which are missing from the store, are alleged to have been found on McKee.

St. John pulled his box at 8.52, and his failure to pull again led to the discovery of the murder. Three shots were fired at him and he was hit in both arms and in the back. Two colored men were seen in the store at 8.50, and it is the theory of the police that they managed to escape observation until after the store was closed and when found by the watchman shot him.

Mr. St. John was for years grand chief of records of the Red Men and a well known traveling salesman. He was a Civil War veteran.

According to the Lewiston police who arrested McKee the latter said he had another partner having been giving boxing exhibitions and conducting an "African Dodge" booth at country fairs during the last few weeks.

I found that the only member of the company that understood Mr. Wilbur was Kate Deola Wilson, and that was on account of her being a former member of the Boston Museum. She was the only member that Mr. Wilbur paid any attention to, and she laughingly told me that the company practically considered herself the manager, as she found out from Mr. Wilbur everything that was necessary to know and the company would come up to her.

Mr. Wilbur at that time did not realize the peculiar temperament of the actor, and how they had to be treated more or less like children to keep them in a state of enthusiasm so that the public would get the best out of them in the way of performance. However, two weeks satisfied Mr. Wilbur.

"What next have you for me?" said Mr. Wilbur.

"Well, my brother Daniel is very enthusiastic over 'Won at Last,' by Steele Mackaye, the author of 'Hazel Kirk.' So we had a meeting with my brother Daniel.

"Why," said Dan, "on the strength of 'Hazel Kirk,' of course, Steele Mackaye will do a big business." So immediately Mr. Wilbur authorized Dan to select and engage a company and produce a play, which he did, at the Bijou Theatre. Somehow or other, the public were not interested in Steele Mackaye who played the leading part of a superb cast. A few weeks experiment convinced my brother that he had better stop.

"What comes next?" said Wilbur again to me.

"I will tell you. You had better take Daniel and Charles R. Gardner and jump over to Boston and take a look at 'The Mascot,' which is running in Boston to a huge business, and as far as I can see no one as yet has thought of doing the same in New York City."

As Mr. Wilbur played 'Won at Last' in the Bijou Theatre he reserved time with Manager McCall, and so organized a special 'Mascot' company. He brought over Harry Brown and Amy Lesley, who is now the celebrated Chicago critic on the 'News,' and gained a career which he continued for many years as manager of operas of that type. It was when he withdrew his company from the Bijou Theatre that Mr. McCall reorganized an operatic company when he saw the success of Mr. Wilbur's company, and the McCall Opera Company was successfully launched and became famous for many years. Mr. Wilbur's long ambition of building a theatre in Boston which he planned so many years ago, he finally realized and now he owns two, the Majestic and the Wilbur. Mr. Wilbur is an ideal manager. He gives no orders; the scrub woman and his managers are so delighted to serve him faithfully that they all protect his interests without his looking after them.

BRAVE ALPINE WINTER ITALIAN TROOPS TO

Venice, Sept. 27.—The report that with the first snow fall of the season the Italian troops would be forced practically to abandon all the positions in the Trentin, Cadore and Carle Alps, conquered at a very high sacrifice of lives, is now indirectly denied by one of General Cadorna's orders directing the commanders of every section to push the work of preparing the winter quarters for all troops in the high passes and peaks on the front now in the hands of the Italians.

This order has somewhat disconcerted the Austrian general staff, whose heads for a long time had confidently expected that during the winter months at the latest, early in the spring, many of the valuable passes leading into Italy would be quietly re-occupied and fortified for the summer campaign.

According to Italian officers this belief was based on what was considered the fact of the impossibility on the part of any human being of sojourning from October to April in an altitude of two thousand metres to say nothing of the passes over the glaciers overlooking them at an altitude of two thousand and five hundred of three thousand metres above the sea level.

The Italian general staff, however, was determined on holding every inch of ground conquered, and had taken as was to be expected, every step to carry out a program that will make the Austrian war a memorable one from more than one point of view.

In fact it is betraying no secret to say that, with the exception of a few advanced posts on the Trentin Alps every point possessing a strategic military value will be effectively maintained throughout the severe winter months.

The decision of the general staff has afforded another proof of the high morals of the Italian troops, their unsurpassed patriotism, and the spirit of sacrifice which prevails them. Italian officers relate that after the important decision was arrived at the objection was raised as to whether enough men could be found who would willingly consent to spend six or seven months in perfect seclusion, locked in wooden barracks on a desolate wilderness of snow. They argued that while the soldiers would obey without hesitation, yet it was sheer cruelty to lock them up against their wish and leave them for a long time amidst dangers of all sorts.

It was then decided that the commanders of regiments should explain in detail the situation to their men, dwelling at length on the importance of maintaining the positions already in the hands of the Italians, in order not to begin anew next spring, the dangers with which a winter sojourn on the Alps would be fraught, and then asked for volunteers.

The result of this appeal on the part of the officers surpassed the expectations even of those who had the utmost confidence in the patriotism of the Italian troops. When those willing to go were asked to step forward, whole regiments advanced. Everybody claimed the honor of being of the selected ones.

The Italian authorities expect to have the winter quarters ready by the end of September. The barracks will be built of lumber, and will be coated with cement to keep the cold out and make them fireproof. The garrison will have provisions and ammunitions for eight months and a double telephone line will connect them with the nearest command. A wireless apparatus will also be installed for use in case avalanches and landslides should put the telephone out of order.

A committee just organized in Milan under the Presidency of the Duchesse Letitia is now collecting books, magazines and periodicals to furnish each garrison with enough reading matter to last them a year.

1,500 STRIKERS RETURN AT LOWELL ARMS PLANT

Lowell, Sept. 28.—Accepting the terms of the state board of arbitration and the United States Cartridge Company from where they have been on strike for three weeks, 1500 cartridge makers returned to work today. This makes a total of 1900 working and 2000 on strike.

Those who returned this morning went back temporarily on the old schedule working hours and the same wages they were receiving when they went on strike. The point they gained, however, was that the state board of arbitration will investigate their working hours and salary and should it see fit to make any changes recommendations to the company would be readily adjusted.

About 1000 strikers were on picket duty around the plant. They paraded around the plant cheering and shouting but did not bother any of the men who returned to work.

There will be a meeting late today between Capt. Thomas Doe of the company and 500 machinists who are on strike.

The show at the Colonial Theatre last evening attracted another, big audience who were united in the opinion that the show was one of the best seen in Portsmouth.

A well known sporting man of this city stated last evening that the Portsmouth high school boys should get busy and gather up enough coin to pay for the services of a coach.

Fighting the White Plague.

The fight against the great white plague, or tuberculosis, one of the most dreaded diseases known to the human race, has not yet been won, neither has it been abandoned. Scientists in this country and Europe have been studying the problem for years and at times it has been claimed that cures have been discovered, but in spite of these alleged discoveries the awful malady gathers in its victims by the thousands year after year, demonstrating that it has not been overcome by the efforts of those who have long and faithfully devoted their energies to the study of this most important problem. That progress has been made in combatting the disease and preventing it to some extent is certain, but the world is still waiting for a cure, the discovery of which is believed by many to be a hopeless undertaking.

This may be so, yet invention and discovery in other directions give ground for the hope that still further progress will be made in this important field of investigation and experiment, even if the efforts of the scientists do not result in complete success. In many fields men have achieved what once was believed to be the impossible, and such accomplishments warrant the belief that many things which are now believed to be impossible will one day be achieved.

Among those who have been studying tuberculosis and endeavoring to evolve a cure is Dr. J. D. Gibson of Denver, who has just retired as president of the American Association of Clinical Research. At the recent annual meeting of the association in Philadelphia he stated that within ten years the disease should be controlled to an extent which will practically eliminate fatal results. His treatment consists in X-rays, ozone and static electricity in addition to the climatic and dietetic treatment now common in tuberculosis hospitals. He claims that with the X-ray the disease can be detected in persons before they show any effects of it, and that advanced cases can in many cases be cured. He says that out of 757 cases treated by his method there were only 61 deaths, and that the time is coming when it will be a disgrace for a physician to allow a case of tuberculosis to reach an advanced stage.

Dr. Gibson laid the results of his work before the convention in detail and the physicians assembled were favorably impressed. They did not jump to the conclusion that a cure for tuberculosis has been perfected, the doctor does not claim that it has, and the public will probably continue to be skeptical in view of the many failures of the past. It is well, however, that investigation should be continued, and there is relief in the hope that the time may come when it will be crowned with success.

From various parts of the country come reports that peaches and apples are rotting on the ground for lack of prices that would pay the growers for sending them to market. And yet the cities are full of poor families and children who are going without. This paper repeats its recent contention that this condition affords a wide opening for organized philanthropy. It is a condition that ought not to exist in any civilized country.

Mineral and table waters are among the important productions of the United States, a government report showing that in 1913 the amount sold exceeded 57,000,000 gallons, the price for the same being more than $5,000,000. That is a great deal to pay out for water in a country that is so well watered as are most sections of the United States.

A twelve-pound package of dynamite was found in the mail in New York the other day. It was mailed in California and was addressed to a person in Italy. The fact that they are liable to run up against packages of this nature must be somewhat disquieting to those who handle the mails. Of course, the government is investigating.

Porter Charlton, the American who is to be tried in Italy for murdering his wife in that country, is seeking to introduce American methods into the case. The trial is booked for October 5 and the young man is asking for "postponement."

Reformed spelling of proper names in Mexico and the Old World would be greatly appreciated in this country just now. The ordinary man in trying to read the war news aloud would find his jaws on the back of his neck.

Germany talks in billions while we talk in millions, but this is because the mark is less in value than the dollar. However, it all amounts to the same thing—the dollar mark.

The season of harvest suppers is at hand, and to read of them is enough to make one's mouth water.

What few countries are not at war are mobilizing. It is a high old time.

CURRENT OPINION

Three Prime Requisites for Making American Prosperity Permanent.

There is no use in deluding ourselves. Our present foreign trade is on a false basis. The three prime requisites for permanent prosperity in this country are:

First—Take the tariff out of politics through the establishment of a permanent, expert, non-partisan tariff commission.

Second—Give us a federal incorporation law under which our corporations can organize and be regulated and controlled.

Third—Give us a non-government owned merchant marine.

During its entire existence this country has never faced such colossal opportunities to capture foreign trade as it faces today, and yet because our corporations do not know how they can legally do business, because our tariff is a political makeshift and economically unsound, and because we have no ships with which to transport our goods we are helpless.—By George W. Perkins, Capitalist.

NATIONAL DEFENSE LEAGUE FORMS STATE ORGANIZATION

The New Hampshire League for National Defense was permanently organized at Concord on Friday when there was a meeting of the delegates of the various branches of the state, including the local branch, organized last week.

Hon. Charles Gale Shield of Keene presided. Francis M. Jencks of Dublin outlined the purposes of the league and gave an account of the work thus far in other states. Among other things he said: "It is admitted by military authorities that in case of invasion of this country by any first class power, the Allegheny mountains, would be the first line of defense. It means that the manufacturing and arsenals in which about 25 per cent of all the munitions of war manufactured and stored would immediately fall into the hands of the enemy. Only a miracle could enable our navy to escape defeat from attack by Great Britain or Germany."

He strongly urged citizens to organize in order that their voice may be heard in supporting the propaganda for national defense by the next congress. He strongly emphasized the fact that organizations of this nature are animated by motives of patriotism only, and urged all men regardless of party affiliations to take a stand which he maintained is absolutely necessary for the preservation of our country.

At the close of the meeting remarks the meeting and the election of officers. The following were chosen:

President—Hon. Clarence E. Carr.
Treasurer—Edward M. Pearson.
Secretary—Thomas Wolbach.
Board of directors:
Concord—Frank E. Streeter, James H. Runkle, A. J. Chase, John W. Jameson and John B. Davies.
Manchester—Stephen E. Burroughs, P. H. Sullivan, Fred W. Lamb, Frank Knox, A. B. Jones, Gordon Woodbury, Eugene B. Reed and W. T. Stahls.
Nashua—James B. Colles, James B. Crowley, Lester E. Thatcher and Marcel Theriault.

Dover—George J. Foster, J. H. Neally and M. J. White.
Keene—Charles G. Shield, Joseph Madden, Orville E. Cain and George H. Eames.

Franklin—Mayor Ned Davis, Thomas P. Clifford and Richard W. Sullivan.

Lancaster—Henry B. Quimby and C. W. Vaughan.

Portsmouth—D. W. Badger, George A. Wood and John K. Bates.

Rochester—Governor, Holland H. Spaulding and Samuel D. Felker.

Berlin—Edmund Sullivan.

Wetmore—George A. Carpenter.

Peterborough—Robert P. Bass and James P. Brennan.

Milford—Charles L. Luce and James A. Braman.

Andover—Ex-Governor N. J. Batchelder.

Dublin—Francis M. Jencks.

The board of directors were empowered to all to their members as further local organizations were formed.

During the course of the meeting stirring addresses were made by Frank H. Streeter, Robert P. Bass, Napoleon Dyer, Marcel Theriault, Mayor Davis, Clarence E. Carr, Joseph Madden.

BRING RESULTS

Manufacturers should be interested in the experience of one of the "great corset manufacturers." He says: "The obvious purpose of national corset advertising is to bring trade to the local retailer. Make a canvass of the retailers in New York or Knoxville, in Chicago, or Kankakee, and it's a safe bet that 100 per cent. will urge the use of the local daily newspaper in preference to all other mediums. And that's a conclusive test. The local dealer knows what brings results to him." Does not the same principle apply to any other good product?

More Money for Draftsmen

Several of the drafting force in the Industrial Department were happily surprised on Tuesday with the announcement that the department had granted them a substantial increase in salary.

Transferred to Brooklyn

William Wilson, chief draftsman in the Industrial Department has been transferred to the Brooklyn navy yard and will shortly leave for that station. Mr. Wilson has been at the local yard for nearly twelve years and is recognized as a most valuable man in the drafting force of the government, and his departure is much regretted by his associates and officers at the yard.

Bids Opened Thursday

Bids for sixteen new submarines, five sea-going cruisers, and 11 of the coast defense type, will be opened at the navy department Thursday. The bids were authorized by the last congress.

Docking Orders.

The Tennessee will come out of dry dock on Thursday and the collier Vulcan will go in for further work on her propellers.

Big Social Event.

One of the biggest social events for many years will occur on Oct. 5, when the officers and crews of the survey ships Hamthal and Leonidas, will conduct a grand concert and ball in the yard sail loft, one of the buildings with the largest floor space on the reservation. The affair is in the hands of a committee from both ships and will be a complimentary to the people at the yard and Portsmouth.

Eighty Working Days Allowed

The department today notified the commandant that it had extended the repair period of the U. S. S. Tennessee and allowed eighty working days to complete the same. This will keep the ship here at the home port until July 1, 1916.

Work on the Caesar

An order for some rush work on the collier Caesar was given by the department today and must be completed by October 6. A crew of mechanics will work on the vessel on Sunday.

Lieut. Parker Detached

Lieut. James Parker Jr., for the past two years attached to the Industrial Department and former Hull division, has been detached and ordered to the destroyer Jarvis now at Gardiner's Bay, Long Island Sound. Lieut. Parker is one of the best known officers in the service. He has, since the consolidation of departments in February last, acted as assistant to General Manager Adams and is one of the most popular officers of the station. He has taken a personal interest in every move made for the general good of the Portsmouth yard, as well as the department in which he labored. His courteous treatment to the mechanic and laborer as well as the officers of the service has always been noted by the employees of this station. In his departure the yard loses a most efficient officer, and the employees a good friend.

BOARDER SKIPS WITH PROPERTY

Police Will Bring Him Back From Maine on Warrant.

The police on Tuesday received a complaint made by a resident of Hampton street against Albert Douglas, who has been missing from this city for a week or more. The party making the complaint claims that Douglas departed from his place of abode in Portsmouth with a suit case containing razors, camera, clothing, and money amounting to $100 in value.

The police learned that Douglas is at present located in Maine and Deputy Chief Queller was sent after him today with a warrant for his arrest charging him with larceny.

PILLSBURY ANNOUNCES CANDIDACY

Will Run for Governor on the Republican Ticket.

Londonbury, N. H., Sept. 28.—Rosecrans W. Pillsbury announced today that he will be a candidate for governor in the Republican primary next year. Mr. Pillsbury ran last time against Governor Roland H. Spaulding and after the primary he stumped the state in favor of his successful opponent and the whole G. O. P. ticket which was selected.

He gave out this statement addressed directly to the people:

"I shall be a candidate for the nomination for governor in the next Republican primary. I make announcement at this time in order to ask for the continued favor of the thousands of Republicans who voted for me last time and to enlist support of others who have my ideas on public matters."

"My slogan has always been: 'Boost New Hampshire' and it will always continue to be. I was born in this state and have spent my life here as a farmer, manufacturer, publisher and employer of labor. I know what the men and women of this state need and what our resources are, in agriculture and industries we have great possibilities which a governor can do much to develop."

"Bankers and business men are doing more than ever before in New Hampshire to co-operate with farmers along lines I advocated before the last legislature and in previous political campaigns. The way to make the most of our opportunities is to get together, boost each other and boost the state."

"During the coming months I shall try to visit the voters in every city and town and talk over with them such matters as affect our general welfare. What I have told the people in past years have been the things I sincerely believed and now believe are best for the prosperity of all. By providing an honest, capable government, the Republican party is in a position to help make New Hampshire one of the most prosperous states in the country."

Mr. Pillsbury stated in addition that he will not take the stump until the time to open the 1916 campaign arrives. He is busy with his large farm and orchard and shoe factory in Derry but finds time to make addresses occasionally on farming and apple culture, before gangs, lodges and local gatherings.

Today's statement marks Mr. Pillsbury's fourth attempt to secure gubernatorial honors. He was born in this town, is 52 years old and was educated at Dartmouth College. He sat in four legislatures and two constitutional conventions, and was a delegate to the Republican national convention in 1904.

Mr. Pillsbury served in the National Guard five years and was a captain. He also served several years as a trustee of the state college and is said to have one of the best and most up-to-date apple orchards in New England. In one section of it are three thousand trees which he set out and cared for with his own hands, and so successful were his efforts that he is urging other farmers to take up apple raising along modern lines.

GERMAN OFFICERS RETURN

Were to Aid Bulgaria in Plans for Attacks on Serbia.

(Special to The Herald)

Athens, Sept. 28.—Private advices from Sofia report that the appointment of Crown Prince Boris as commander in chief of the Bulgarian army has been cancelled and that numerous German officers who had arrived there to assist the Bulgarian staff in drafting plans for an attack upon Serbia will return to Berlin. Boris has long been known as an opponent of Russia.

OLDEST DARTMOUTH ALUMNUS IS DEAD

Malden, Mass., Sept. 28.—Rev. Joshua W. Wellman, said to have been the oldest living alumnus of Dartmouth college died at his home today. He was 93 years old. Graduating from Dartmouth in 1816, Rev. Mr. Wellman taught school for several years, then entered Andover Theological Seminary, and was ordained a minister at Derry, N. H., in 1851. He is survived by a son and a daughter.

Mr. Wellman became the oldest Dartmouth graduate several months ago when Judge David Cross, then the most venerable alumnus, died at his home in Manchester, N. H. The Manchester man was nearly one hundred years of age.

HAITIEN REBELS KILL AMERICAN OFFICER

(Special to The Herald)

Port au Prince, Sept. 28.—An unconfirmed report reaching here today says that Haitian rebels attacked and dispersed American marines at Petite Riviere last night, killing an American officer.

LOCAL MAN ELECTED TO GRAND COMMANDERY

The 65th annual convocation of the grand commandery Knights Templar of New Hampshire convened at Masonic Temple in Concord at 11 o'clock Tuesday morning at 11 o'clock, R. B. Sir Arthur Stanley Buntin of Manchester presiding, with a representative attendance from all parts of the state.

It. B. Sir Knight Samuel J. Bryant, past grand commander of Concord, was in attendance representing the grand encampment of the United States of America.

The opening of the commandery was performed by Trinity commandery of Manchester, R. B. Sir Knight William E. Welch commander. The regular routine business was transacted and the following officers were elected for the ensuing year and installed into their respective duties by R. E. Sir Knight George W. Currier assisted by R. E. Sir Knight Arthur S. Buntin, past grand commanders:

It. E. Garvin Reynolds Mageon, Lancaster, grand commander.

V. E. Harvey Bligham Clenden, Claremont, deputy grand commander.

E. George Elmer Danforth, Nashua, grand generalissimo.

E. Charles Henry Sinclair, Concord, grand captain general.

E. Benjamin Franklin St. Clair, Plymouth, grand senior warden.

E. John Kimball Bates, Portsmouth, grand junior warden.

E. Charles Carroll Hayes, Manchester, grand treasurer.

E. Harry Morrison Cheney, Concord, grand recorder.

E. Rev. William Edward Patterson, Claremont, grand prelate.

E. Clarence Irving Hurd, Dover, grand standard bearer.

A. Walter Greenland Africa, Manchester, grand sword bearer.

E. Charles Louis Wentworth, Rochester, grand warden.

E. Charles Alfred Rice, Claremont, grand captain of the guard.

A pleasing feature of the session was the presentation of a past grand commander's jewel to the retiring grand commander, R. E. Sir Knight Arthur Stanley Buntin, in well chosen words, by R. E. Sir Knight Harry M. Cheney, grand recorder, in behalf of the grand commandery.

New York, Sept. 28.—The agreement between the Anglo-French financial commission and the American bankers with whom they have been conferring over the proposed credit loan to Great Britain and France has resulted in the information of a definite plan.

It was officially announced here tonight for the establishment of a $500,000,000 loan issue on five per cent British and French bonds, payable jointly and severally by the two nations upon which the big loan will be a first lien. The conditions in brief are:

Amount of loan—$500,000,000. Issuing price—98 to public, 96 to bankers' syndicate. Profit to syndicate—$10,000,000. Denominations of issue—Units of $100.

Conditions of sale—"Populair", may be paid in instalments. Interest—5 per cent, which will be about 5 1-2 per cent to investors at price of 98.

Form of bonds—Joint British and French five-year bonds, payable jointly and severally by the two nations, upon which the loan is a first lien. Bonds are exempt from British or French taxation.

Conversion—At maturity bonds are convertible at 4-1-2 per cent joint British and French bonds, redeemable from ten to twenty years thereafter by the two governments, jointly and severally.

Syndicate—American bankers headed by J. P. Morgan and company.

FIRE AT U. S. TROOPS. (Special to The Herald)

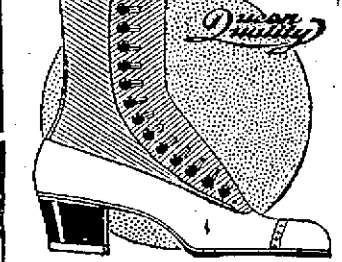

Brownsville, Sept. 28.—Mexican snipers fired more than fifty shots during the night at American soldiers stationed near Progreso to prevent another invasion of the United States.

Navy Yard Man Talks

Editor:

In a communication appearing in the morning's Chronicle, and signed by some boob who seems to be afraid to put his real name to his letter, or rather bunch of vacuum, and wherein he brings the men of the United States navy in to his bum discussion. I wish to say that he and a few more of his kind who have resorted to "shooting the bull" about mechanics, etc., don't know what they are talking about. In my opinion they are nothing more than a bunch of hot air merchants, employed at the navy yard under the title of mechanics, but who in reality are nothing more than monkey-wrench machinists, who in all probability graduated from some correspondence school, and who suffer themselves to believe they are mechanics.

I think that the cause for the recent defeat of the veterans was caused by nothing more than lack of sand, or to be more liberal minded I will moderate that statement and say that the men who worked the tub in the recent contest were physically incapable of keeping up the pace set by the other contestants. In other words, the local vets have gone back physically and are unable to undergo the strain.

I will guarantee to take twenty blue-jackets and enter a contest against 30 vets, and if my men don't beat them out, hook, line and sinker, then I'm a rubber boot. We are willing to put up a sum of money to make things interesting.

OPEN SUBMARINE BIDS THURSDAY

Washington, Sept. 28.—Naval architects are looking forward with much interest to the opening of bids at the Navy Department Thursday for sixteen new submarines authorized by Congress at its last session, and which will cost in the neighborhood of $500,000 each. The interest is heightened by the fact that several of the bidders have promised radical improvements in the type of engines to be installed in the boats, and as the engine problem has been one of the most difficult to solve in respect to submarines, naval officers are anxious to know what these improvements are to be. Most of the specifications furnished to the bidders are of a confidential nature, and as a result it is impossible to ascertain what speed and other requirements were laid down by the department.

Planning Steam Submarine

Steam turbines may be substituted for gasoline or oil engines for surface cruising in future American submarines. Plans are under consideration at the Navy Department. It was learned yesterday, for steam experiments with boats of the G class now under construction. As yet no definite decision has been reached but the failure of internal combustion engines for submarine work has been so difficult to overcome that navy designers are seriously seeking a substitute. A steam-propelled submarine was built for the navy more than a decade ago, but proved so hot when the fires were lighted that she was not accepted and never left her dock. Many French submarines employ steam engines successfully and it is understood that a plan details of which have not been made public, has been evolved by American navy engineers which promises even better results. Engine difficulties of both submarines and aeroplanes led to the recent visit of Henry Ford, the automobile manufacturer, to Secretary Daniels. The statement of the problems encountered is being prepared for Mr. Ford's information.

SOLDIERS ALLOWED TO SELECT BOOKS

Torquay, Sept. 27.—George Bernard Shaw, the playwright, who is staying here, heard that the wounded soldiers under treatment in one of the local hospitals wanted a better assortment of books than that which had been supplied by kind hearted, but often unreflecting woman visitors.

"I said that I would give one hundred books and jokingly remarked that I intended offering one hundred Bibles, but if any of the men would like any other book instead they could mark it on the list."

"When the list was returned I found that the men had selected 72 general books and that they were polite enough to intimate that they would take the remaining 78 in copies of my own works."

"The interesting fact is that all the words of Ruskin appearing in the list were marked."

WEEKS FOR GREATER WAR PREPAREDNESS

Washington, Sept. 28.—"Advantage" is the weakened public sentiment in regard to military affairs should be increased to form a military and naval reserve," declared United States Senator John W. Weeks of Massachusetts in an address at St. Louis last night.

"Just now the military situation is definitely understood here and abroad," continued the senator, "that there should be no offence taken at the unvarnished suggestions created in the thoughts of foreign Powers. If we are to be a great nation, we must be prepared."

Senator Weeks spoke of the need of a national defence board "free of politics," and said that no great headway could be made in military and naval affairs so long as changing administrative must be a factor in defence preparations.

Business Men's Regiment Organized

Organization of the Business Men's Training Regiment by those who attended the citizens' training camps this summer has been effected and headquarters have been opened in New York. The purpose of the organization is to encourage a "system of military training camps throughout the nation and of assisting to provide a reasonable amount of military training for the citizens of the United States." Robert Bacon, former ambassador to France, is chairman of the organization committee. The permanent committee is composed of business and professional men from all parts of the United States.

WAR FOSTERING INVENTIONS SAYS GUGLIELMO MARCONI

London, Sept. 28.—Peace-at-any-price advocates may wisely look to their laurels. Into the ranks of their opponents now comes a man well fitted to smash their strongest arguments—a man the world has come to accept in that category of superlative genius in which Americans allow only Edison and the Wright Brothers. This man is Guglielmo Marconi.

At all times Mr. Marconi is a very busy individual—and never in his idlest moments, a seeker of personal publicity. Now that he has become an officer in the Italian army and is in actual charge of all the various communication corps he has less time than ever even for the business of which he is the head. Three weeks of every month Mr. Marconi is close behind his fighting brothers in the Trentino superintending the working of the field telegraph, telephone and wireless systems.

It has been my good fortune to have an hour's chat with the inventor of the wireless telegraph—a conversation in which Mr. Marconi spared no pains to let me understand that he counts war as a mighty boon to mankind. He does not regard it as an unmitigated blessing in the sense that German militarists look upon it—as a necessary check to inevitable peace degeneracy—but he does consider that out of and over above the horrors and the suffering of war have always come and are coming new offsetting benefits.

Mr. Marconi's flying visits to London these days are equally the result of private business demands and of calls made upon him by the British war office. Italy's newly made alliance with Great Britain has yet to offer any aid quite so valuable to the United Kingdom as their working arrangement with Marconi. He is here now to accompany experts to a distant corner of South Wales where distant experiments in wireless telephony will be made under his supervision.

"There is no denying the fact," Mr. Marconi said "that the commercial world has suffered immeasurable hardships through this war. But to take my own business for example, the losses we have sustained in a commercial sense, have been more than counterbalanced by the forward strides already made and in the making which war work has brought about."

"The advance that has been made in wireless telephony alone is much, much greater than could have been possible in the same space of time, were there no war. Belligerent governments are straining every resource to obtain decisive victory, have no such grip or purse strings as the same government in times of peace wherefore—although now the commercial world is denied the practical benefits arising out of the lavish expenditures of belligerent governments forwarding inventions—when the war is over and the results of these experiments are made the world will receive a stunning surprise. The tremendous improvements which have already been effected and which are being constantly made in almost every line of inventive activity will be almost as would appear an aeroplane in flight to our fathers a quarter of a century ago. It will be the combined sum of all the foreign strides which will have been taken secretly during period of the war that will be suddenly spread before the people of the world when peace is declared—and enough progress has already been made to guarantee that the final document will be amazing."

Mr. Marconi is predicted to secrecy in so far as his own experiments for the Italian and British governments are concerned and beyond the significant admission that wireless telephony is occupying most of his attentions these days he would vouchsafe nothing. But the wireless wizard intimated quite plainly enough for me to understand that one of the epoch making consequences of the war will be an exposition of a commercially practical wireless telephony.

Referring to the German submarine blockade of England and of the vast improvements made by the Germans in this type of craft—virtually every detail of which has been changed and bettered since August, 1914, Mr. Marconi brought out several interesting facts which hitherto had not been generally known.

"Apart from every other improvement in submarine construction," he said, "the Germans have brought wireless telephony in submarines to an astonishing high degree of efficiency. Every night German submarines—even far out in the Atlantic to the West of Ireland—are in constant communication with Berlin. All the German submarines even the smaller craft that antedate the war are now equipped with wireless installations sufficiently powerful to receive messages about 1000 miles distant."

This testimony in view of evidence offered by the crew of the Dunsink which saw the submarines which sank the Amble—and declared it was more than 300 feet long—somewhat minimizes the value of the German statement that orders had been issued to sink no more merchantmen without warning, a week before the Arabic incident. According to Mr. Marconi, the Arabic's destroyer must have been in touch with Berlin by wireless immediately after the attack.

HOW VICTORIA CROSSES ARE DISTRIBUTED

London, Sept. 27.—Now that the number of Victoria crosses granted during the war exceeds one hundred, it is interesting to analyze the list and see how the awards have been won. In all, 163 decorations have been conferred, as well as one clasp—the recipient of which already held the cross—and of these, 49 have been secured by the regiments, 30 out of the 49 corps being represented in the list. There are also for Territorials on the roll, one of whom adds another line regiment to those who have secured the award. The Brigade of Guards has won six, the Artillery nine, the Engineers five, the Pioneers four, and the Cavalry two. The Headquarters staff and the Army Medical Corps each appears once though the latter also claims the clasp. The contingent from overseas are represented by eight Indians, four Canadians and one Australian, while the Navy has obtained ten crosses.

UNITED STATES WARSHIPS TOO BIG

Congress is making a mistake in building battleships of such gigantic size and high cost, according to Rear Admiral C. H. Stockton, retired, U. S. N., who is on a visit to St. Louis, says a newspaper dispatch from that city.

Admiral Stockton said that he is in favor of building smaller battleships and cruisers to take the place of the heavier battleships.

"After many years of experience in the United States Navy I have come to believe that it is not a good plan to put too many eggs in one basket," Stockton said. "The submarine has been the powerful factor which has taken away some of the power of the modern battleship. Congress is doing wrong in not building two smaller boats for each big battleship. There is no telling what the submarine will yet accomplish. She already has proved she can put out of business a big battleship with a single shot. Until there is an antidote for the submarine it is wiser to build smaller boats."

Rear Admiral Stockton is president of George Washington University at Washington, D. C., and is an authority on international law. He said that there is not much danger of the U. S. becoming involved in war with Austria or Germany over the asking of the recall of Ambassador Dumba.

"It is known among diplomats and attaches of the government that the United States has asked for and obtained the recall of ambassadors of Great Britain and other countries," said Stockton. "In fact, this country has established a record in having the greatest number of foreign representatives recalled."

Stockton said that President Wilson was right in asking for the recall of Dumba. He said that President Wilson has lived up to the letter of international law and has guided this country with precision and judgment. "As to the length of the war, I think it easily will continue another year," Stockton said in answer to a question. "The Allies will never consent to peace terms the way the situation is now. They have not made much progress up to the present, but they will soon. It is now Germany's time to push peace overtures through President Wilson."

The United States navy man for man is not the equal of Great Britain or Germany, Stockton said. It is efficient, however, he said. The navy is a profession he said, and its members must be trained as professional men. They must have the same drill and training in peace that in war they will not be made inefficient through strain and excitement.

The American navy officer is the best in the world, Stockton said, because he has to be a swimmer, navigator, understand international law and everything connected with the navy—Army and Navy Register.

PRESIDENT WELCOMES VETERANS

Washington, Sept. 28.—President Wilson tonight will extend to the veterans of the Grand Army of the Republic the welcome of the nation to the national capital. In an address the commander-in-chief of the army and navy will give the veterans of the Civil war the keys to the city and express the gratitude of the Union to the men who were the instruments of its preservation more than a half century ago.

Cabinet officers, justices of the high courts sitting in the capital, members of congress and other government officials will also deliver addresses. Col. David J. Palmer of Des Moines, Iowa, commander-in-chief of the G. A. R., will respond to the address of the President.

The meeting is to be held in the old Census Bureau Building, just outside the capital grounds. This building was chosen for tonight's observances because it stands on a spot boasting historic associations. At the time of Lincoln's first inauguration it was learned that an attempt would be made to take his life. Headed by Captain M. G. Emery a group of Washington business men formed a vigilance committee which successfully guarded the President. Emery's house stood near where the census building now stands and the residence was used as the headquarters of the vigilantes. Heirs of Captain Emery tendered the use of the building to the veterans.

The national presidents and other officers of the Grand Army of the Republic, the Ladies' Auxiliary of the G. A. R., and other women's orders affiliated with the Grand army will participate in tonight's program.

JEW SUFFER BY RUSSIAN PROGRAMS

Berlin, Sept. 28.—The German-Jewish Central Society, has received details of an attempt of the Russian bureaucracy to instigate pogroms in different parts of Russia. According to a report published by the society, the threatened massacres were only prevented by a number of influential members of the Duma and lawyers, who demanded an investigation of the charges against the Jews.

After the first defeat of the Russian troops in the Province of Novgorod, the following report was published by the official organ in Petrograd:

"A number of German soldiers succeeded in sneaking in to the village of Kushi, where they were hidden in cellars by Jews. The following night the Germans broke from their hiding places and murdered Colonel Wawilow with several hundred Russian soldiers but reinforcements finally drove them off. The leaders of the Jewish traitors were executed at once and all other Jewish inhabitants have been sent to Siberia."

This report was sent through the Empire and posted at the street corners in every city, town and village. It caused immense excitement and the ignorant masses worked themselves into a frenzy. Memorial services were held everywhere for the "martyred" Colonel, and in many places mobs began to attack the Jews.

The situation became so critical that members of the Duma and prominent lawyers appealed to the government. Prime Minister Goremykin ordered an official investigation and after many weeks of delay the commissioners appointed, recently published the following report:

"Only three houses of the village of Kushi are owned by Jews and there is not a single building in the town which has a cellar. Colonel Wawilow, who was said to have become a victim of the alleged Jewish treason, never existed and no Jew was court-martialed or executed in the village."

"The town was in the possession of the Germans for a short time. When the enemy was driven out by a Russian battalion the commander of the latter established his headquarters in the house of a Jew named Kihart. The Jew gave all the information he possessed, in regard to the movements of the Germans and he warned the commander that the enemy would probably attack the village again."

On the following day the Germans bombarded the village and the house of Kihart was set on fire. The Russian commander ordered a detachment to save the Jew and his family and as many of their belongings as possible. When the town could not be held any longer the Jewish and Christian inhabitants fled with the soldiers under a heavy fire of the German artillery. The Jews were protected and assisted by the Russian commander and his troops in every possible manner."

This report was published in Petrograd. The minister of the interior, however, ordered all district governors to stop the memorial services for the martyr, Colonel Wawilow.

WERNER HORN'S CASE APPEALED

DECISION AGAINST GRANTING WRIT OF HABEAS CORPUS

Boston, Sept. 28.—An appeal has been taken in the case of Werner Horn, the German army officer charged with transporting dynamite interstate to blow up the International bridge over the St. Croix river. Judge Morton decided against Horn in the matter of a writ of habeas corpus. Horn is in the East Cambridge Jail in default of $50,000 bail. The appeal is likely to cause a delay in his trial, which U. S. District Attorney Anderson desired to have take place next week.

PEOPLES' OPINION

Don't Need Enlisted Men

Editor:—

I read with much amusement a communication in a local evening paper on Tuesday over the signature of "A Real Mechanic" and I wish to say with all due respect to the writer that he is nothing more or less than a bunk. His argument as to the cause of the trouble with the hand tub at Amesbury I refuse to consider, but I must say in justice to the veteran firemen of this city that the assertion he makes that sailors and marines worked on the brakes of the hand tub Eureka at Amesbury on Saturday last is absolutely false. The veteran firemen have always fought their own battles, worked their own hand tub, and have never called on enlisted men for any assistance one way or another. When I come to going into the service for help, the veterans will close their doors and go out of business first. In this matter I have no intentions of casting any reflections on sailors or marines, but they do not fit on hand tubs and "Real Mechanic" knows that if he knows anything.

FUNERAL OF VICTIMS OF F4

Remains of the Fourteen Men Who Perished in Ill-Fated Submarine Laid at Rest in Arlington Cemetery

Washington, Sept. 28.—Last 30,000 veterans of the Civil war who stood with bared heads, four gun cartridges each conveying one flag-draped coffin, bore from the Washington navy yard today to Arlington National cemetery the remains of fourteen men who perished in the disaster to the submarine F-4 beneath the waters of Honolulu harbor last March. Companions in death their bones were commingled today in the four coffins. They lie now in one grave. It was a fitting coincidence that the funeral should be held during the 45th annual encampment of the G. A. R. and that the line of march from the navy yard to the cemetery was that over which veterans passed in review before President Lincoln fifty years ago, and over which a few thousand survivors of that event will march tomorrow.

"EVERYWOMAN"

(Special Story).

Walter Browne, the author of the dramatic spectacle, "Everywoman," which will be seen at the Portsmouth Theatre Friday evening, was a scholarly man, an university alumnus, and had looked upon life under hard conditions from almost every quarter of the globe. He had been an editor, a lecturer, an actor, a singer, and in the Savoy Theatre, London, had performed for the first time several roles of the Gilbert and Sullivan operas.

Beauty in "Everywoman" Portsmouth Theatre Friday, October 1.

He told many amusing tales of his early struggles to get a foothold as an actor and singer. He met the usual discouragements of the provincial amateur—his home was in York, England, where his father was Lord Mayor—but convinced that he had talent he journeyed up to London without parental consent and without credentials or introduction went to the Savoy Theatre. The stage door being open and the keeper absent, Browne gained access to the stage. It was early in the morning before rehearsal time and the place seemed deserted save for a short, stout man who was seated in the semi darkness drumming a piano. Browne went boldly up to him and asked whom he should see about having his voice tried. The man turned gruffly upon him and told him to proceed. He sang "A Warrior Bold." The player looked him over and told him he would do. Some time afterward Browne learned that the pianist to whom he owed his engagement was Sir Arthur Sullivan.

Walter Browne's staunchest friends admit that his lines play better than they read. He undoubtedly was gifted with that faculty of writing directly at his audience. His language is most effective because it is simple and not profound. His literary style is ruggedly sincere. There is no trace of pedantry, no pride of intellect, no display of imaginative power for its own sake. "Everywoman" is as simple, direct and sincere of purpose as John Bunyan's "Pilgrim's Progress," written as John Bunyan might have written it had he been immured in a New York lodging house instead of Bedford Jail.

BARNETT SAYS MORE MARINES ARE NEEDED

Washington, Sept. 28.—Major General Barnett, commandant of the Marine Corps, is expected to recommend a large increase of officers and enlisted personnel of the corps. Last year the commandant recommended an increase in the corps of 41 officers and 779 enlisted men. Congress did not grant the increase as the recommendation was not endorsed by the Secretary of the Navy. The conditions of which Major General Barnett complained the next year. Last year the Marine corps had more than 5000 men at Vera Cruz, Mex. This year finds more than 2000 men in Haiti. How long they will remain there, no one knows. The best opinion is that it will be necessary to keep a large force in Haiti for a year. It may be necessary to keep a few marines in Haiti for several years, as it has been necessary to maintain a legion guard in Nicaragua. The withdrawal of a large force of marines has left some navy yards without sufficient men and has divided the corps into small units. The advance base work upon which so much emphasis has been laid will be embarrassed. Marine Corps officers say and they are anxious that Congress prevent it.

ALLIES ARE THREATENING THE BULGARS

STAND BEHIND THE OTHER BALKAN STATES IN EVENT OF AN ATTACK.

London, Sept. 28.—Sir Edward Grey, the British foreign secretary, announced in the House of Commons today that the Balkan friends of the Entente Allies would be powerfully supported should Bulgaria take an aggressive attitude hostile to the Allies. Bulgaria, though she has mobilized her troops, has not made her next move any clearer. Berlin hears that Bulgaria and Greece have agreed upon the establishment of a neutral zone between the two countries. This is declared to mean that the Entente Allies have been frustrated in their attempt to mould the course of Greece to their liking. Berlin has a report that the efforts of Greece to obtain an agreement with Roumania for a common policy have failed. Greece also informed Serbia, according to Berlin advices, that she would resist the passage of foreign troops through Greek territory. This, Berlin supposes, has reference to reports that the Entente Allies would send troops to Greece. If Bulgaria should attack Serbia, the Serbian war office at Nish reports two attempts by Teutonic forces to cross the Dniepr into Serbian territory, both of which were repulsed.

Hears of Bulgar-Greek Neutral Zone

The Overseas News Agency says that according to reliable information Bulgaria and Greece have agreed upon the establishment of a neutral zone between the two countries.

The suggestion of a neutral zone, the News Agency says, was made by the members of the Greek general staff who acted in concert with King Constantine. The Overseas News Agency adds:

"Bulgaria agreed and there is no doubt that she is ready to yield to Greek wishes about the Serbian territories of Dolna and Goyget. This means that the attempts of the entente allies powers have been frustrated."

English and French officers have been in Salonica in order to prepare for the handling of Anglo-French troops Greece, for the time being, is determined to maintain neutrality even in the face of the threat to land troops.

Secretary Grey emphasized the long standing friendship between Great Britain and Bulgaria and added:

"Our official information from the Bulgarian Government is that they have taken up a position of armed neutrality to defend their rights and independence, and that they have no aggressive intentions whatever against their Balkan neighbor. Not only is there no hostility in this country to Bulgaria, but there is a traditional warm feeling of sympathy with the Bulgarian people. So long, therefore, as Bulgaria does not side with the enemies of Great Britain or her allies, there can be no question of British influences or forces being used in any sense hostile to Bulgarian interests; and so long as the Bulgarian attitude is unaggressive there can be no disturbance of those friendly relations."

After making the categorical announcement that if Bulgaria should assume an aggressive attitude on the side of Great Britain's enemies, the Government would take action, Sir Edward continued:

"We are, of course, in consultation with our allies on the situation and I believe the view I express is theirs also; our policy being to secure an agreement in respect to the Balkan states which will ensure each of them not only independence but a brilliant future, based on a general principle, on territorial and political union and kindred nationality."

ANNUAL TEAM MATCH SATURDAY

The annual team match of the members of the Portsmouth Country Club will be held on Saturday of this week. As this is the last big golfing event of the season at the club there is considerable interest being taken. The teams will be captained by Alvin Redden of the Reds and R. W. Junkins of the Blues. Two teams have been matched up and it is expected that there will be about fifteen to a side.

The losing team will act as the host to the winning team at a beefsteak supper which will be served at the club house at six o'clock. The preliminary drawings for the teams has been posted at the club and at present they look about an even thing on paper.

"The Tangle," the best military drama ever filmed, will be at the Portsmouth Theatre today and Thursday. The boxing bouts last evening attracted a much smaller attendance than did the mills staged here last winter.

We are still waiting to hear what those engineers of the Allies think of the paper mill as a possible factory for munitions.

OBITUARY.

Mrs. Sarah A. Wingate—
Mrs. Sarah Ann Wingate, widow of Henry P. Wingate of Hampton, died at her home in that town Tuesday evening, aged 82 years. She was formerly an Exeter resident, but had lived in Hampton 33 years. She was born in Newburyport, Mass., February 28, 1833
the daughter of Samuel and Elizabeth (Shannon) Pearson. The survivors are a son, John Wingate of Hampton; four daughters, Miss Mary Wingate, Mrs.
Elizabeth Mack and Mrs. Sarah Taylor, all of Newton, Mass., and Mrs. Edith Pike of Portsmouth, and in Stratham a brother, Samuel Pearson; also two half-brothers, Isaac and George B.
Wiggin.

Mrs. Emily F. Kimball—
Mrs. Emily F. Kimball, widow of William F. Kimball, died last night at her home in Kittery, aged 79 years.
She leaves four sons and two daughters. Funeral services Friday afternoon at two o'clock from the First Christian church, Kittery Point.

WHY WOMEN SHOULD VOTE

Because it would make women more broad-minded. Professor Edward H. Griggs says: "The ballot is an educator, and women will become more practical and more wise in using it."
Because it is a maxim in war: "Always do the thing to which your adversary particularly objects." Every vicious interest in the country would rather continue to contend with woman's indirect influence than to try to cope with woman's vote.

COLONIAL THEATRE

Home of Refined Vaudeville.
Safety and Quality First.

VAUDEVILLE FOR MONDAY, TUESDAY, WEDNESDAY.
"Les Agoustes"—In their original juggling pantomime entitled "A Jolly Supper at Maxim's." Two men and a woman. An act that has drawn the princely salary of $750 a week on the big city time.

"The Dancing Mares"—Presenting their dancing novelty entitled, "All for a Kiss." Two women and a man. Very clever, and in fact a wonderful trio.
"Erwin and Herzog"—Two men billed as singing comedians. They will give you 12 minutes of good clean amusement.

This week the Colonial presents a vaudeville bill that even Hammersteins or Keith's Palace Theatre in New York have never excelled in quality.

Pictures for Wednesday & Thursday
"Her Romeo"—Billy Reeves attempts to play Romeo in real life, and the real Romeo clothes is the main spring of this one-reel farce. The result is amusing, as only Billy's romantic sweetheart is impressed with his appearance.

"Nearly a Bride"—An amusing burlesque comedy, in which Bud Duncan, Dave Morris and Ethel Teare make most of the fun.

"The Key to Possession"—Cast includes Robert Ellis, Richard Purdon, Eve Pratt, and Steven Purdee. Two reels.

"The Quitter"—One reel. Featuring Edmund F. Cobb, Ann Kirk, and Hugh E. Thompson. A story of modern life and points an excellent moral.

NOTICE

president of the Concord Ministerial Union.

The forenoon was taken up with the routine business and the principal address of the afternoon session was by Rev. L. W. Attwood, pastor of the Universalist church in this city. Rev. Mr.
Cole of Winchester preached the sermon.

The program for this evening will include three notable addresses by Rev. Vannevar, Rev. Ashley Day
Leavitt and Rev. Dr. F. W. Perkins of Lynn. Music by the United Chorus of the Universalist and Baptist churches.

York Largely Attended

The funeral services of Herbert D.
Philbrick who was killed in an automobile accident at York on Sunday morning, were held at two o'clock on Tuesday afternoon from the Methodist church in that town. It was one of the largest funerals in recent years, all the stores being closed and the church was crowded with relatives and friends.
The service was conducted by Rev. A.
C. Goldard, the pastor, and the liverside Lodge, I. O. O. F., followed with their service.

A delegation headed by Exalted Ruler Ernest L. Chaney represented the Portsmouth Lodge of Elks.

The floral tributes were profuse and included many handsome set pieces from the various organizations of which he was a member.

The pall bearers were Hon. Joseph W. Simpson, Messrs. Willard Simpson,
W. N. Putnam, George Thompson,
Frederic Varrell and A. A. Odiorne.

HAMPTON BRIDGE TO BE FREE

Hampton Bridge, the longest wooden bridge in the world, will cease to be a toll bridge on October 1, according to announcement made here on Tuesday.
The long span, which crosses the Hampton river, is owned by the street railway company, and for years automobiles and pedestrians have been forced to pay a toll charge upon crossing the structure.

Fishing will also be permitted along its mile of length starting the first of next month. It was announced, much to the joy of anglers.

DE WITT CLINTON COMMANDERY DID ESCORT DUTY.

Following a private service at the home on High street, conducted by Rev. Dr. S. H. Dana of Phillips church, the funeral of Clarence M. Collins, a business man and 32d degree Mason, took place in Masonic Hall, Exeter, at 3 o'clock Tuesday afternoon with a very large attendance. Stores were closed from 2:30 to 4:30.

De Witt Clinton Commandery of Portsmouth did escort duty. Dr. Dana officiated and there was singing by a Boston quartet. Star in the East Lodge performed its funeral service. The Masonic bodies, Swanwick Lodge, K. of P., and Court Wheelwright, F. of A., marched in the funeral procession, as did representatives of Friendship Council, R. A., and Brixington Lodge,
N. E. O. P.

The bearers were J. Gilbert Haley and Hon. John Seaman for Star in the East Lodge, John W. A. Green for Swanwick Lodge, Fred A. Moore for Friendship Council, Col. Fred W. Sanborn for Brixington Lodge and Edward
A. Shute for Court Wheelwright.

80 Acre Farm For Sale in Rye, N. H.

About 80 acres in grass, 12 in tillage, and the balance in the pasture, with about 25-acre pine woodlot with a good growth on it. The orchard has about 40 trees, and the place has 50 tons of hay last year.

The property is on the main road from Greenland to Rye, five minutes' walk to Greenland station; heavily shaded with three very large old elm trees. There is a never-failing water supply.

The main house has eight rooms, bath, and set tubs, with fireplaces in each room. Barn is 50x60, with a tie-up for 12 cows, a box-stall, and running water. There is a carriage house and other small buildings, and two cement silos.

This is one of the best farms in Rye, very high and slightly, on the main road, near railroad station, schools and stores. Very desirable for an automobile inn, or for an all-the-year round farm, or could be used for a summer place.

COLONIAL THEATRE

Safety First

Quality First

The latest and best in vaudeville and pictures. The field from which our vaudeville is chosen is unlimited.
If Boston, New York or Chicago have it, we have it. We also draw from Europe, thus securing some of the best vaudeville sensations ever witnessed. The same facilities are accorded the Colonial as accorded Keith's Palace Theatre, New York City, and all other big Keith houses throughout the country.

Vaudeville for Monday, Tuesday and Wednesday

This week the Colonial presents a vaudeville bill that even Hammersteins or Keith's Palace Theatre in New York have never excelled in quality.

"LES AGOUSTES"—In their original juggling pantomime entitled "A Jolly Supper at Maxim's." Two men and a woman. An act that has drawn the princely salary of $750 a week on the big city time.

"THE DANCING MARS"—Presenting their dancing novelty entitled "All for a Kiss." Two women and a man. Very clever, and in fact a wonderful trio.

"ERWIN AND HERZOG"—Two men billed as singing comedians. They will give you twelve minutes of good clean amusement.

Pictures for Wednesday and Thursday

"THE KEY TO POSSESSION"—A Two-Part Kalem Drama.

"HER ROMEO"—Lubin Comedy, featuring that funny fellow, Billy Reeves.

"THE QUITTER"—Lubin Drama.

"NEARLY A BRIDE"—Kalem Comedy.
